Dear Parents,
Greetings!

July was a month brimming with excitement and engaging activities for our students. It started with a warm Welcome Back Activity that set the tone for the entire month. The students eagerly showcased their holiday homework, displaying their creativity and enthusiasm. The first day was filled with laughter and joy as they participated in fun races using hula hoops and balance balls, all on paper glass. The highlight was a hands-on session where each student crafted a beautiful pen stand from ice cream sticks, a delightful takeaway from their day.

Celebrating Blue Colour Day, students dressed up in blue outfits and created art with blue objects, learning about colors and marine life in a creative way and engaging. Making a blue whale with paper and a small sea with recycled water bottles not only fostered creativity but also taught them about the importance of recycling and caring for the environment. Pasting cutouts of different types of fish in waves added an educational element, helping them learn about marine biodiversity.

Exploring the theme of plants in a hands-on manner was fantastic for young learners! By understanding different parts of plants and their functions, they gained a deeper appreciation for how plants grow and contribute to our lives. Learning about the products we get from plants helped them connect theory with everyday life, showing them the importance of plants in providing food, materials, and oxygen. They also engaged in activities like seed germination, where they sowed the seeds themselves to gain first hand experience. It not only taught them about the life cycle of plants but also instilled a sense of responsibility and care as they nurtured their seeds into seedlings. The children enthusiastically participated in a Show and Tell Intra Class Competition where they showcased different fruits and vegetables. They brought cutouts of various fruits and vegetables and spoke lines about each one.

The celebration of World Paper Bag Day was a valuable learning experience for the students, teaching them about the importance of using paper bags instead of plastic bags. This initiative involved activities such as crafting paper bags with news paper, discussing environmental impacts, and emphasizing the benefits of reducing plastic waste.

Students also engaged in a variety of enriching activities to learn letters T, H, E, and F, the number 3, and the shape of a triangle. Activities included tracing and writing letters, playing letter recognition games, counting exercises for the number 3, and exploring triangles through drawing and crafts.

Book Week was an enriching experience for our young learners. They engaged in various activities that expanded their knowledge and creativity. Crafting Dr. Seuss characters, bookmarks, and pen stands with paper cutouts not only fostered their artistic skills but also sparked their imagination through literature. Celebrating D.E.A.R. (Drop Everything and Read) Day was another highlight, encouraging a love for reading by dedicating time to dive into books.

Father's Day was a delightful and thrilling day for our young ones. They enthusiastically participated in fun races alongside their fathers, which brought them great joy and excitement. The highlight of the day was when they presented their fathers with beautiful cards and flowers, expressing their love and appreciation. This heartfelt gesture not only brought smiles to their fathers' faces but also strengthened the bond between them.

The Value of the Month for July was Kindness, and students learned about the importance of helping others, particularly those in need. One activity they engaged in was simulating a scenario where they acted as bus passengers. This involved role-playing situations where they practiced offering seats to others, helping someone with their belongings, or showing consideration for those who may need assistance.
